BOILER ON BARGE LETS GO

Four Dead, Two Injured and Several are Reported Missing

WAS UNLOADING COAL

At Racine, Wis., Docks This Morning When Accident Occurred—Fire Raging in Steamer.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Racine, Wis., June 11.—Four dead, two injured and five reported missing, is the result of the explosion of the boiler of the steam barge E. M. Peck, of Duluth, unloading coal at the Pugh coal docks in Racine harbor this morning. The above number of casualties was given out by the officers of the vessel immediately after the accident. Further than this they would not commit themselves.

The stern of the boat is blown away and a stubborn fire is threatening the steamer with total destruction. The police and fire departments and volunteers are making desperate efforts to locate the missing men.

First reports gave two men dead and four badly injured. It was thought also that other victims were still aboard the blazing boat.

The boiler of the barge was blown fifty feet into the air and landed some 200 feet astern of the vessel, crashing into the coal company's shed. The vessel was about to shift her position and had cast off when the accident occurred.

The explosion was caused, it is reported, by leaking boilers. Fire broke out aboard ship but the entire city fire department subdued the blaze.

Captain J. A. Logan, of Duluth, in command of the vessel, was on the bridge at the time of the explosion but was unharmed by the flying wreckage.

The boat arrived in port yesterday morning from Toledo, O.

Dead: W. E. Andres, Huron, O. Adam Grig. Gus Junderson. M. Downs.

The last three are believed to be from Toledo.

The injured: George R. Turchi, Toledo.

Ed. Young, Sandusky, O.

Missing: H. Schoonsen, second engineer, Sandusky, O.

F. B. Spiers, slightly burned.

NEED NOT PAY EXPORT DUTIES SECOND TIME

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, June 11.—Exporters who paid custom duties to Aguinaldo's government in the Philippines after the American occupation, but before the ratification of the treaty of peace with Spain, were advised today that they need not pay the duties to the American government by a decision of the supreme court.

The right is upheld, of a British firm, MacLeod and Company, which imported rice at Cebu when Aguinaldo was in control of that port, to sue the government for an equal sum paid as duties on the same cargo to the American government as a condition of the firm being permitted to do business in Manila.

Victim of Hazing at Denison Pleads for the Reinstatement of Pfeiffer

Pleading earnestly for the leniency of the faculty of Denison University, Stuart Collet, victim of Saturday night's hazing yesterday went before Acting President R. S. Colwell and urged that K. A. Pfeiffer of St. Paul, be reinstated as a student in the university. Pfeiffer was expelled for his part in the hazing and was ordered to leave Granville within 24 hours under penalty of arrest.

Despite the sensational stories which have been published regarding the hazing, Collet will not be disgraced for life. The scars caused by the burns of the silver nitrate will not be noticeable in a few days.

A personal friend of Collet, talking to the Advocate Tuesday night stated that the marks would not attract attention now if the details of the hazing had not become so generally circulated.

Collet states that he bears no ill feeling against the five young men who took part in the hazing. He states that his first impression was that the deed was a dastardly one but since he has learned that he will suffer no permanent injury, he is inclined to take a more charitable view of the prank. He urged Dr. Colwell to reconsider Pfeiffer's suspension and allow the young man to return to school.

In a statement to the Advocate, Prosecuting Attorney J. Howard Jones said that the matter had not been called to his attention officially and that before he made any investigation he would await developments. If Collet's burns prove as slight as latest reports indicate, there probably will be no official investigation.

Collet last night was able to attend the Lewis prize literary contest at the Baptist church. Few in the church except those who knew him personally could pick him out of the audience.

BROTHER IS ARRESTED ON SUSPICION

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Galesburg, Ill., June 11.—Ernest Lindoft of Abingdon, Ill., was arrested today on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of his brother, Prof. Chas. A. Lindoft, the violinist who was killed early Tuesday morning in his home in Galesburg.

Bloodhounds placed on the trail early today followed the scent to a room in which Ernest Lindoft had spent the night, until the bloodhounds started the sheriff and police were baffled as no clues had been found.

Indications of a struggle between the murdered man and his slayer were found in abundance in the hallway outside Miss Hazel Lindoft's room, to which the professor had been called by the screams of his daughter. In addition to three bullet wounds, the music teacher's body had marks of many blows. Detectives think the girl may hold the key to the situation but she has so far refused to accuse any one of the crime.

President Names Rival's Friend for High Place

Washington, June 11.—President Wilson did something unusual in politics when he named E. K. Campbell, a strong friend of Oscar W. Underwood, chief justice of the Court of Claims, Justice Campbell who hails from Virginia, was one of the original Underwood men when the fight for the Democratic nomination for the presidency came last year. But he was named for the court on the recommendation of Mr. Underwood, who was a strong rival of the President before the Baltimore convention.

Judge Campbell is fifty-five years of age. He succeeds on the bench Justice Stanton J. Peck.

Turkish Minister of War Assassinated at Constantinople at Noon

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Constantinople, June 11.—The Turkish grand vizier Mahmond Scheffket Pasha was assassinated at noon today by two men armed with revolvers who attacked him while he was proceeding in his motor car to the Sublime Porte.

It is believed in government circles here that the assassination of the grand vizier was the outcome of a plot against the committee of union and progress (young Turks.)

Mahmond Scheffket Pasha had held office as grand vizier since January 23 this year when Kiamil Pasha resigned. One the same day, Nazim Pasha, the commander of the Turkish army at the Tehatalja lines was shot dead during a demonstration in Constantinople.

Mahmond Scheffket Pasha was a pure Arab and a native of Bagdad. He was brought to Constantinople with his family when he was a boy. After studying at the military school he graduated at 18 years of age with the highest honors.

He was a great favorite of the former Sultan Abdul Hamid, who appointed him to the generalship. Afterward he proceeded to Germany and stayed there ten years studying the organization of the German army.

Mahmond Scheffket Pasha despite his close intimacy with Abdul Hamid, was the moving spirit in fostering the military revolution which brought about that Sultan's fall.

Soon after the outbreak of the Balkan war, Mahmond Scheffket Pasha was appointed chief of the commission department at the Turkish war office and he was one of those present at the grand council of the Empire which decided in January this year to accept the proposal of the European powers to bring the war to an end.

Gov. Cox Speaks On Taxation Matters In An Address At O. S. U.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Columbus, O., June 11.—That the net result of the last session of the legislature was the reinstatement of the Smith one percent law and the passage of the original Smith law, was the declaration of Governor Cox in an address today in connection with the commencement exercises of Ohio State University.

"These two measures constitute an advance step in taxation matters and will prove a great benefit to the state," said the governor.

With reference to the suggestion of an amendment to the constitution in behalf of a plan to classify property for taxation, Governor Cox said:

"I believe the Warren bill will materially relieve the present situation, although the uniform system of taxation, while ideal in theory has not proven practicable. The tangible property gets on the duplicate but most of the intangible property does not. And it is urged that there is no feasible method of getting it there, except by inaugurating a system of classification in this state."

In this connection, however, the governor points out that classification would be confined almost exclusively to the cities since in the agricultural sections the only property existent is visible to the eye of the assessor and suggests that the rural districts ought to be given the assurance that the limitation of the tax rate will be something more than a law passed by the legislature.

Continuing this point Governor Cox said:

"If the Warren law is supplemented by a constitutional amendment in favor of classification, the limitations carried by the Smith law must be written into the constitution in the same amendment, in order to provide against the caprice or subsequent legislation."

"There is nothing unscientific in this and there is no question but what it will turn vastly increased amounts into the public treasury."

If the Warren bill is supplanted with the plan of classification the fiscal condition of the communities of the state will be vitiated to such an extent that there is absolute safety in providing a limitation on the rate in the constitution if exceptions are made in reference to emergencies, the governor said.

INSTITUTE TO INQUIRE INTO COUNTRY LIFE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, June 11.—Creation of a country-life institute to inquire into country life, with a view to making farming more attractive and efficient, also to check the influx to the cities, is to be the object of a bill introduced by Representative Stoneross of Montana. A permanent committee office is proposed, but provision is made also for the enlargement of the commission by philanthropy if such enlargement should become necessary.

The military officers who were concerned with the passage of martial law in the strike district, and with the condition of affairs there under martial law, whom the committee summoned yesterday were the first of the witnesses to be called today.

The witnesses recorded were needed to make clear the procedure followed by former Governor Glasscock in the proclaiming of martial law. Judge Advocate General Wallace, Adjutant Charles D. Elliott, Major James A. Pratt, Captain Chas. A. Morgan and Captain Samuel L. Walker, were on the list.

Former Representative Joseph H. Gaines, an impromptu witness, furnished the committee with the testimony which will form the basis of the investigation with regard to the super-seeding of the civil authority by the military forces. Mr. Gaines detailed (Continued on page 8, col. 3)

SENATORS START THE MINE PROBE

Of the West Virginia Coal Fields by Summoning Militia Officers

COURTS OF THE STATE

Stripped of Power and 150 Square Miles Placed Under Martial Law—Big Corps of Attorneys is Present.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Charleston, W. Va., June 11.—Industrial war in West Virginia was today described to the senate mine strike investigation committee by Adjutant General Elliott, who told in graphic details of battles fought between mine guards and strikers at Mucklow and Holly Grove in the Paint Creek section. He told of armed trains carrying machine guns that swept through the strike district and related stories of men ambushed and shot down. At least a score of skirmishes were detailed by him, in nearly all of which men were killed or wounded.

General Elliott told of the capture by the state troops of six deadly machine guns capable of firing 150 shots a minute and 120,000 rounds of ammunition. He identified photographs of a sheet iron fort built by mine guards at Mucklow and told of the capture of hundreds of "man killing" guns. Many of them, "hidden out" in hollow trees and mountain caves after the militia took charge of the strike district.

Trains held up, mine tipples burned, pitched battles between mine guards and miners were all detailed by General Elliott, who said that all of these affairs were reported to him.

He detailed an engagement at Mucklow Holly Grove on Paint Creek and Honda Cabin Creek, on February 10, when a mine book-keeper and a miner named Esteph were killed. This resulted in a second declaration of martial law and General Elliott said that when he went into the fields with troops on the night of February 10, a dynamite bomb was found on the railroad tracks ahead of his troop train.

"All of these affairs were between mine guards and strikers," said the general. "The militia had nothing to do with them and I know of them only through information brought to me by both sides."

General Elliott gave the committee documents showing the operations of the military which took charge of the strike district during the first martial law period and showing the disposition of prisoners.

Charleston, W. Va., June 11.—With the basis of their inquiry firmly laid, members of the senate committee investigating the West Virginia coal situation today proceeded to lay bare the process by which the civil courts were stripped of their power and more than 150 square miles of West Virginia were placed under martial law. Senator Borah of Idaho, took charge of the inquiry, under that section of the senate resolution directing "a probe on the charge that citizens had been deprived of their rights under the constitution."

Ping Bodie, the famous fence buster of the Pacific Coast league, before annexing his signature to a salary guarantee with the Chicago White Sox, has failed to live up to the promise he gave when he first joined the American leaguers. He is now a substitute outfielder under Jimmy Callahan.

When Bodie first joined the White Sox he was a bearcat as a batter, so much so that pitchers throughout the circuit dreaded to see him step to the plate in a pinch. By dint of untiring efforts these pitchers finally found his "weakness." It seems that Ping does not care much about a curve ball about shoulder high.

"The Faith Healer" Tomorrow.
"The Faith Healer" a two part feature film will be seen at the Auditorium tomorrow. It appeals particularly to thoughtful observers of a religious temperament, as it shows how time and circumstances conspire to bring a thoughtful man and an infidel into the Bible. Two love stories are interwoven with the plot. There is plenty of action of a sincere, convincing nature and the closing scenes are very impressive. Barbra Tennant has the leading role and J. W. Johnston appears to advantage as the Faith Healer.

FEDERATION OF BROTHERHOOD IS ORGANIZED

Officers Elected, Constitution and By-Laws Adopted—To Take Active Interest in Local Government.

Fourteen church brotherhoods are represented in the Federation of Church Brotherhoods of Newark, organization of which was completed at a meeting in the First M. E. church Tuesday night. The several separate organizations have affiliated for the purpose of civic activities.

The brotherhoods are co-operating in the movement and several other churches which have no brotherhoods are interested and will lend a hand. The new federation is to take an interest in local government and in the support of men and measures for the betterment of Newark.

President J. C. Berger of the Methodist brotherhood presided at the meeting during the opening services. Rev. Mr. Green, pastor of the Woodside Presbyterian church offered prayer. Several songs were sung to accompaniment of the M. E. Sunday school orchestra.

Following the opening services, A. S. Mitchell and A. R. Evans, temporary chairman and secretary, respectively, took charge of the program for completion of the organization of the federation. The nomination committee consisting of Ned Sherburne, T. M. Edmiston, A. C. Herrod, R. V. Boyd and A. R. Evans made its report.

1910—Young Joseph, former English welterweight champion, defeated Arthur Evernden in a 6-round bout in London. The Hebrew boxer fought Evernden again the following year, and lost on a foul. Evernden was defeated by Johnny Summers, the present English welterweight champion, last June. It was Evernden who figured in the fatal boxing bout in Paris last year, when Polli, a French boxer, collapsed in the ring and died soon afterward.

1909—Ad Wolcott knocked out Teddy Peppers in 10th round at Kansas City.

THE BLIND LEADING THE BLIND

A Teacher of the State Commission Giving a Lesson to a Blind Pupil.

The State Commission for the Blind has helped me in so many ways, not only financially, but it has employed my mind as well and has given me many happy moments, for it is such a comfort to be able to do something," writes one of the blind home workers.

"That message" writes Secretary Campbell, "comes from one of the blind women whose work is on exhibition at Mazy's dry goods store, this week. Citizens of Newark are responsible for many of the 'happy moments' referred to by the writer of the above letter. Nothing has given workers for the blind more encouragement than the splendid way in which the ladies of your city have patronized the work of the blind people. If some women in every city of Ohio would promise to buy a few articles every year that are made by the blind we should be able to give work to every blind woman in Ohio who asks for it. We do hope that all those who can will visit the exhibition."

Benefited Many Who Had Tuberculosis

Those who suffer from Consumption are generally troubled with night sweats, fever, loss of strength and little or no appetite. Fresh air, good food, and the proper care of the body are essential to a recovery, but in many cases something else is needed. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine which has been most successful in stopping night sweats, reducing fever and promoting appetite, and many who have used it, declare it saved their lives. Investigate what it did in this case.

"Gentlemen: For four years I was troubled with cough, which gradually became worse. I had night sweats and pains in my chest. I was losing my appetite and had become so thin and weak I could not attend to my household duties. A physician pronounced my case Consumption. Not being satisfied, I was examined by the physicians of the Bronchial Hospital. They also pronounced the disease Consumption, which was proven later by an examination of my sputum. As Tuberculosis Bacilli were found, I was ordered to a Consumptive Hospital. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alternative. Before I had taken the medicine three weeks I had marked relief, night sweats ceased, pain in the breast relieved, cough became loose and easy, fever left me and I commenced getting well. My health became normal. I am in excellent health now and have been completely cured for ten years. I strongly recommend it."

OLD BRIDGE ABOUT READY TO COLLAPSE

Residents of the South Second street hill district "hollered" before they were hurt according to developments Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. The cutting off of all communication with that portion of the city will not amount to much more than 21 hours as it is a bridge suitable for pedestrians and wagons will be opened probably before the ink is dry on these printed words.

A representative of the Advocate was invited to visit the scene of the bridge construction Wednesday morning and found the temporary bridge half way across the stream immediately west of the present structure. The location of the temporary structure will not necessitate a drive of more than thirty feet to the west of the old bridge.

The visit of the reporter revealed a number of other interesting facts regarding the Second street bridge. The most important fact was that the arrangements for a new bridge were not made a day too soon. The present bridge was in immediate danger of collapsing and the real wonder is that it did not go out during the flood or fall with a heavy load.

The removal of the flooring from the old bridge revealed the fact that the girders and truss rods bearing most of the weight of the bridge as well as the traffic, were badly rusted in some cases rusted completely through, so the loose ends rattled badly. On the north end of the bridge the end post on the east side of the structure is rusted completely through on one side. It is feared that its removal in fact will be difficult. Foreman Huffman who is in charge of the construction work states that it is a great wonder that the bridge did not fall owing to its badly rusted and worn condition.

In explaining the construction of the temporary crossing Mr. Huffman stated that it was necessary to use the timber from the old bridge to save the heavy expense of buying entirely new timber.

According to the specifications for the new structure, there will be 210 feet more of clear space in the river channel than is under the present bridge. There will be two piers under the new structure and both will be set with the natural current of the stream. These piers will each offer but five feet of resistance to the current in times of freshets.

The gas and water mains which at present form an obstruction to the flow of water, will also be removed and will be carried on top of the bridge. This will make it possible to clear the channel of a great quantity of riprap work which was dumped into the stream to protect the mains and which naturally obstructed the flow of water.

"We couldn't expect to have an improvement of this character without some inconvenience at least for a short time," said a member of the South Side Citizens' association. "The commissioners and the contractors are looking after the interests of South Siders and they needn't fear that the Second street hill district will suffer."

DENISON'S CLASS DAY EXERCISES

Held Wednesday Morning on the Campus—Large Crowd Hears Splendid Program.

(Special to the Advocate)

Granville, O., June 11.—Situated on the beautiful green campus just north of Doane Academy building, the class day exercises of the graduating class were held on Wednesday at 10 a. m. The graduates clad in cap and gown were seated on a raised platform around which on the campus was gathered the audience.

Dr. Hunt opened the exercises with the invocation after which a musical number was rendered by the class quartet.

Miss Edith Southall read the class history, which she edited and had arranged in a very interesting style. Waldo Heindricks had the honor of presenting the class shoe.

The speech of acceptance of the aforementioned class shoe was eloquently made by Mr. C. F. Schropp.

Hubert Martin presented the Senior Bench after the Sophomore class planted the ivy.

The class prophecy was made by Hazel Long and W. J. Currin. It was very literary and though somewhat humorous showed deep foresight and intuition.

Mr. George Finnie presented the class memorial and his well known eloquence and the prestige of his resonant voice will never be forgotten by those present.

The speech of acceptance by Samuel Brierly was followed by music by the class quartet.

This college year 1912-13 has been the transcendent year in the history of the athletics of Denison University. So far this year only four defeats have been suffered in all branches of sport. Each of the teams has distinguished itself by its adherence to the superior coaching of Mr. Livingston.

"Liv's" interest in his teams has been double for the reason that besides being coach he also has the interest of an alumnus.

A rumor has been abroad for several days that the Conservatory of Music at Denison was either to be abandoned or crippled. According to the copies of the meeting of the board of trustees. This rumor was stoutly denied Wednesday morning when a member of the board was interviewed by the Advocate reporter. The member of the board imparted the authentic information that the conservatory would in no way be deteriorated and would probably be improved.

Joe Jackson is once more giving Ty Cobb a hard fight for batting honors in the American league. He is now hitting .341 over the .400 mark. He is again one of the chief cogs in the attacking machinery of the Cleveland club.

In response to the many stories which have been printed recently to the effect that he let Jackson go because he did not think he was a ball player, Connie Mack has stated that he always recognized Jackson's ability, but that Jackson jumped the Athletics three times and stubbornly refused to play ball north of the Mason and Dixon line for any length of time.

It appears that when Jackson was first procured from the Greenville South Carolina league club he was a victim of home sickness. Mack finally sent him to play with the New Orleans club. Mack saw a chance to trade his option on Jackson and Rath to Cleveland for Lord Briscoe now with Boston and he did so.

Petitions to the Czar.

In Russia there is a court of petitions through which appeals are addressed to the emperor. The court was originally founded in the reign of Ivan IV, in the sixteenth century. When Catherine the Great ascended the throne, she intended to receive all appeals personally, but the task soon passed beyond her powers. The Czar Paul as a young man tried to imitate Catherine's example, and he had a large yellow iron box attached to one of the ground floor windows of the Winter palace at St. Petersburg, into which petitions were dropped. The box was periodically opened and the contents submitted to the czar. This method of receiving petitions was also found to be unworkable. The extent to which the subjects of the czar avail themselves of the court's privileges may be gathered from the fact that as many as 65,000 odd petitions have been presented in a year.

Use the Toothbrush.

The regular use of the toothbrush is necessary not only to remove the acid incrustations that eat holes in the teeth, but also to sweep away the germs of many terrible diseases. These find the necks of the teeth an ideal nesting place. They multiply a million-fold in a few hours unless washed away; then they go down the throat, enter the lungs, the stomach, the eustachian tubes and the passages behind the nose. There they cause consumption, diphtheria, earache, catarrh, bronchitis, tonsillitis—in fact, it would be difficult to say with certainty what diseases may not arise from the germs that have grown upon the teeth. It is now considered almost certain that many cases of appendicitis have this as their origin. Hence there is no process of the toilet so important as that of brushing the teeth.—New York World.

Roger Crabb's Bran Broth.

Roger Crabb, who lived in seventeenth century England, was a persistent faster. He sold off his stock in trade—he was a "haberdasher of hats"—and took up his residence in a but near Ickenham, where he lived on 3 farthings a week. He described his experiences in a pamphlet entitled "The English Hermit; or, The Wonder of the Age." "Instead of strong drinks and wines," says the eccentric Roger, "I give the old man a cup of water, and instead of mutton and rabbit I give him broth thickened with bran and pudding made with bran and turnip leaves, chopped together." Vigorous health was the result, and his abstinence from food was regarded with such suspicion that on one occasion he narrowly escaped being burned alive as a wizard.

CHAT WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

The Graduate and Her Work

THE girl who is leaving school days behind and facing forward to her life work, should pause a little before she decides what to do. Even if she has been studying with some definite work in mind, she should scrutinize this carefully and see if she has chosen wisely.

For this is the day of choosing a vocation scientifically. And the girl who is misfit is going to lose out more rapidly than have the misfits of the past. For then, many were working under the same handicap; but from now on, the number of misfits will be on the decrease. And the girl who is a misfit will not only have this to struggle against, but she will be in competition with those who are in their right places. So there will be many odds against her, and it will pay her to take a little time to find out what is her own special work.

For every girl has some one thing she can do better than any thing else. It is usually the thing she has a preference for. But preference is not always a safe guide, especially when one is young. One needs something surer, more stable. Again some girls have little inclination to any one work, and so drift aimlessly into whatever chances come to hand.

But there is a better way today than any of these to find one's right work. Science has taken hold of the subject, and a scientific study has been made of vocations; and scientific help, as to the work one is fitted to do, is at hand for those who want it. In many high schools, now, are vocation counselors who help a girl to 2-2 out what she can do best. And this is not a matter of giving good advice. But it is a matter of character, and examination of applying tests, and so of weeding out the things she has no aptitude for, until the one thing she has ability for is found, with as much certitude as an answer is worked out in a mathematical problem. And if no vocation counselor is at hand, there are books in nearly all public libraries giving this data, so that a girl can work out her own problem for herself.

And there is so much work needing to be done in this world, and needing to be done well, that a girl both for the sake of her own success, and for the sake of the world's needs, should find her right place. In the domain of the home alone are big problems, problems of help, problems of sanitation, of nourishment, of beauty, of finance. In the educational world, much needs to be done. Almost a revolution is needed in methods of teaching. Woman's place in business and in civic affairs needs the right woman at every post to bring about progress. The world is full of vacant places calling for the right worker. So no graduate should decide thoughtlessly or aimlessly or in a haphazard way what her life is to be. If, before she gave the matter any scientific thought, she has decided what she will do, she should now in the light of vocational data study this decision, and see if she has chosen the right work. And if not, she should cast it aside. Nor should she take something just because it happens to offer itself. But she should study carefully and thoroughly and scientifically this matter of a vocation, and work out just what her individuality is fitted to do. Then she will go forward in her work happily and successfully.

Barbara Boyd.

Sage Tea Is Harmless Way To Darken Gray, Faded Hair

Mixed With Sulphur Makes Hair Soft, Lustrous and Cures Dandruff.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmotherly daken. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known down-town druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Hall's Drug Store, 10 North Side Square, agent.

FIRST OPERATION FAILS; BALKS AT SECOND ONE

OPERATION FOR TROUBLE AIDS BUT TEMPORARILY AND WOMAN REFUSES TO HAVE SECOND ONE PERFORMED.

CREDITS THE UNITED DOCTORS WITH FINAL CURE.

United Doctors Really Effected My Cure—Says Ohio Woman Who Refuses to Undergo the Knife Again.

Modern bloodless surgery is indeed a wonderful improvement over the old methods of cutting for the slightest causes. Surgeons still holds sway among a large percentage of the old style doctors and the new ones are nearly always willing to try their hand at the knife.

Surgery is all right in its place but it has been proven in thousands and thousands of cases that most operations are unnecessary. Time and time again has this fact been demonstrated by the United Doctors, who have their Newark Institute on the second floor of the Arcade building.

Hardly a day passes but some unfortunate, dependent and hopeless sufferer goes to the United Doctors in search for health after every other means of aid have failed them in years of suffering.

While the United Doctors treat successfully gall-stones, goitres, tumors, rectal troubles and other so-called surgical cases, they never operate or use the knife.

Few healthy people realize with what dead a sick person looks upon an operation: few realize the mental suffering prior to an operation or the physical suffering afterward. When patients undergo all this and the operation proves a failure the sufferer is well-nigh hopeless and will do anything rather than go through the dread ordeal again. In going through the experience of Mrs. Bertha Bourne of 282 Lynn Street, Newark, Ohio, we have a typical instance of what the surgeon's knife often means to sick people.

Newark, Ohio, June 9, 1931.

"To Whom It May Concern:
"For the last four years I have been sick with stomach trouble and in this time have undergone an operation and spent hundreds of dollars for medicine. Although the operation did help me temporarily it was the United Doctors who really effected a cure. The surgeon who had operated on me insisted that I be operated on again but the dread of the first operation was still on me and the fear of the consequences of the second operation compelled me to go to the United Doctors who friends advised me never operate.

"The physician in charge of the United Doctors institute gave me encouragement and told me he was certain I could be helped. Today I am feeling fine and consider myself cured and the credit for all this shall always go with my gratitude to the United Doctors."

(Signed) Mrs. Bertha Bourne, 282 Lynn Street, Newark, O.

The above statement was made by Mrs. Bourne in the hope that it might prove a benefit to other sick people.

TRUSTEES OF DENISON SELECT A PRESIDENT

Name Withheld Pending Reply to Message Offering Position—A Strong Man Is Chosen.

(Special to the Advocate.)
Granville, June 10.—The Denison trustees held an all-day session Tuesday, 25 of the 36 members, being present. It is admitted that an agreement on the presidency has been reached and that an invitation has been extended to a strong man to succeed Dr. E. W. Hunt, resigned to accept the secretaryship of the Baptist Missionary Society, but pending a reply from the man to whom the invitation has been extended, the trustees are reticent. It is admitted that the man chosen is not a minister and that he is an educator of high rank. The alumni have been active since Dr. Hunt's resignation urging the election of an educator and a strong executive. The names most prominently urged by the alumni were Clark W. Chamberlin of Vassar; President Hullier of John Stetson, or President Handley of Franklin college.

Dr. Chamberlin graduated from Denison in 1892. He is now at Vassar and has been spoken of for the presidency of Vassar. He is a scientist of wide reputation and a man of splendid personality.

That Robin did not steal from the poor was not an especially noble trait. The poor had nothing worth stealing. Moreover, by helping the peasants with a little money now and then he made them his friends and gave them an interest in warning him against his pursuers.

Robin and his men were splendid archers. Their skill with bow and arrow reached the king's ears. His majesty is said to have been so much pleased with the band's archery that he pardoned them all. But Robin could not long remain out of trouble. He fell foul of the law once more, and the sheriff of Nottingham was sent to crush him. In the woodland battle that followed the sheriff's men were beaten off. Soon afterward Robin fell dangerously ill. There was no surgeon nearby. So his men carried him to a convent, where his cousin was a lay sister. She had great repute in medicine and Robin thought she might save him. She dared not refuse shelter to the sick man for fear of his followers' wrath. But she dared not cure him, lest the king should hear that the convent had harbored and aided an outlaw. So, according to the story, she opened a vein in his arm and left him to bleed to death.

When the dying man learned of her treachery he set his bugle to his lips and blew a feeble blast. Little John, his lieutenant, heard it, and rushed to the sick room. Robin, so runs the old ballad, forbade Little John to take vengeance on the convent. Then, setting arrow to bow for the last time, he sent the shaft whizzing out through an open window and begged to be buried at the spot where his arrow should strike earth.

A likeable, rollicking, sentimental outlaw. His life story (even stripped of all legend and folklore) seems to entitle him to a goodly place among Historic Blackguards.

Historic Blackguards

By Albert Payson Terhune

Robin Hood, Who "Robbed the Rich to Feed the Poor"

"There, underneath this Lytle stone, lies Robert, Earle of Huntingdon. For twenty years and something more he robbed the rich to feed the poor. No archer was as true as he, no goodie, and menne did call him Robin Hood. Such outlaws as hee and his menne Will England never see any more."

SO RUNS an old rhyme. The man about whom it was written undoubtedly lived and was known from one end of England to the other. But whether half the stories told about him is ROBIN HOOD true is quite another matter. It is hard in writing of Robin Hood to sift fact from legend. This story can but tell the popular version of his career without vouching for its entire truth.

Robin Hood is said to have been born in 1160, and to have been a nobleman's son who, through injustice, was outlawed. He too krefe in Sherwood forest, in Nottinghamshire, England. There he gathered about him a band of unfortunate men as desperate as himself, and prepared to make war on the world at large.

It was a rude, violent age. Human life was held lightly. Laws were barbarous. For shooting deer in the royal forests the penalty was torture and (for the second offense) death. The barons and other rich and powerful men could overtax and ill-use the poor almost without restraint. Persons who suffered under such tyranny had usually no redress. Often they revenged themselves by plundering their former masters and by preying on humanity at large. Says one old historian (Stow).

"In this time were many robbers and outlaws, among which Robin Hood and Little John, renowned thieves, continued in the woods, despoiling and robbing the goodes of the rich. The said Robin suffered no woman to be oppressed or molested. Poore men's goodes he spared; abundantly relieving them with that which by theft he got from the houses of the rich. Of all thieves Maior (an early writer) affirmeth him to be the prince and the most gentle theefe."

Robin and his band dwelt in the greenwood, patrolling the highroads and holding up rich travelers. Especially did they enjoy capturing dishonest money lenders and cruel landlords. Robin's favorite method with such prisoners was to conduct them to his secret glade and there regale them with a feast. (The food consisted largely of stolen deer and dainties filched from nobleman's larders.) After the meal he would suggest that they pay for their entertainment by giving him all their money and jewels. At other times he would go, disguised, to some town, make friends with a local rich man and under some pretext lure him to the forest.

That Robin did not steal from the poor was not an especially noble trait. The poor had nothing worth stealing. Moreover, by helping the peasants with a little money now and then he made them his friends and gave them an interest in warning him against his pursuers.

Robin and his men were splendid archers. Their skill with bow and arrow reached the king's ears. His majesty is said to have been so much pleased with the band's archery that he pardoned them all. But Robin could not long remain out of trouble. He fell foul of the law once more, and the sheriff of Nottingham was sent to crush him. In the woodland battle that followed the sheriff's men were beaten off. Soon afterward Robin fell dangerously ill. There was no surgeon nearby. So his men carried him to a convent, where his cousin was a lay sister. She had great repute in medicine and Robin thought she might save him. SENIOR CLASS IN DELIGHTFUL COMEDY DRAMA

One of the most delightful and probably the most fascinating of any comedy ever presented by the high school was "The Weaker Sex," by Arthur W. Piner, presented by the senior class Tuesday evening. The suffragette play was remarkably well adapted to the scenery and the stage setting which gave a very pleasing effect.

Miss Mildred Robe in the role of Mrs. Boyle-Chewton, the leading suffragette, played her part the strongest and the most forcibly of any of the female characters.

Ned Putnam as Ira Lee a poet and a man with two characters was very pleasing and Majorie Lawhead impersonating Lady Vivvly the mother of Sylvia, seemed especially created for that part. Miss Buell Harnad (the daughter of Mrs. Boyle-Chewton) was a surprise to her friends and was very charming.

Ralph Laughlin as Lord Gillingham and Mary Anderson in the role of Lady Gillingham; Grace Ralson as Lady Tiptrot with Elmer Schmel as her husband, Hon. George Tiptrot constituted an array of talent that would incite the envy of many.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Hill portrayed by Paul Edwards and Irene McMahon; Audrey Wall impersonating Mr. Wade Green with Marion Kilpatrick as Petch a servant at Mrs. Boyle-Chewton's, and Foster Wyant as Spencer made manifest their ability for much heavier roles.

Miller Tansel in the role of Bargas, budding politician with parliamentary aspirations made even a bigger hit than in "Sweet Lavender" in which he was the sensation of that play. The personality of Gray Swingle acting the role of Dudley Sylchester was one of the largest factors in the play.

Miss Clotilde Howard was the star of the evening, portraying Sylvia, she was very petite.

The greatest credit is due to Miss Thomas of the faculty who was the coach and director of the play, for without her efforts this great success would have been impossible. Nearly every word of the house was taken and $100 of the money realized will be given to the playground fund; the remainder will be placed in the class treasury.

DISMANTLING OF OLD M. E. CHURCH BEGAN MONDAY

Dismantling the old First Methodist Episcopal church building at Fourth and Church streets, was begun Wednesday morning under direction of A. J. Baldwin, the new owner of the building. A steeple-jack started the work of tearing down the old tower and belfry. Dismantling of the church, built in 1867, marks the passing of one of the first and most imposing church edifices in Newark.

While declining to say Wednesday, what the building will be used for, Mr. Baldwin announced that the structure will be dismantled as far down as the top of the square walls. Charles Brock, who has been using the first floor as a commission house, may continue to occupy the building while changes are being made.

Wheeler, of Colorado, gave the short address in which he pointed out the merits of the Webb bill which prohibits the shipping of liquor into dry territory. He urged every man to sign the petitions that are now being circulated asking that the measure be voted on at the general election this fall.

Following him Mr. Tom Hare, in a most interesting way, told of the long struggle in West Virginia and how step by step, they developed sentiment until the people took an aggressive stand for state-wide prohibition and won last year by a majority of 92,000. He is an eloquent speaker and appealed to the audience that they should do all they could to have the old Buckeye state do as West Virginia had done.

Mrs. Lillian Burt of Colorado made an effective talk, telling of the uniting of the forces and emphasizing the importance of definite instruction as to the effect of alcohol upon different functions of the body.

The convention was in session this morning and afternoon for which good speakers were provided.

MAY NOT RETRY BOND AND DEAN

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, Ohio, June 11.—Prosecutor Turner may not insist on a retrial of the bribery indictments against former Mayor Bond, of Columbus and former Senator Dean of Fremont.

The first trial of the alleged attempts to bribe Senators Drake, of Erie county, and Atwell of Licking county, in connection with the Rose local option bill, resulted in a disagreement, and the prosecutor is not fully convinced that he has sufficient new evidence to convict.

The trial of Clem S. Baxter, former state bank examiner, will begin June 23. Mr. Baxter is charged with embezzling $3,140 of the funds of the Columbus Savings and Trust company.

GRAND LODGE OF PYTHIANS AT COLUMBUS

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, June 11.—Before the Ohio grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias Wednesday, impressively installed the officers who were elected by the past grand chancellors last December, it had plunged through an intricate mass of lodge business and had decided a multitude of lodge details. The reports of the various committees consumed practically all of the morning session and much work remained to be done before an adjournment of the 14th annual convention can take place, probably late today.

Much opposition has developed to the proposal that Columbus be made the permanent annual meeting place of the grand lodge, and many other cities, notably Cincinnati, are making a campaign against this favoring one locality. Cleveland and Toledo also are clamoring for a chance to be hosts to the grand lodge and are waging a hot fight against the Columbus project.

Pythian Sisters in their grand temple sessions worked steadily this morning and afternoon to complete a multitude mass of affairs before adjournment.

give the committee all the local color it needs.

The working of the federal institutions of West Virginia showing that three courts of the justice of the peace, the intermediate court and the local court had jurisdiction over all offenses committed in the strike zone. He said that throughout the period when the military tribunal was in charge of the strike district these courts were open and were conducting their business.

"Then there was no reason why these men arrested in the strike zone could not have been brought to Charleston and given trial by any justice in Kanawha county and tried?" asked Senator Swanson.

"None that I can see," answered Mr. Gaines.

The big corps of attorneys representing miners and mine owners accepted Mr. Gaines' testimony as an accurate statement of the judicial conditions in West Virginia throughout the period when the military authorities ruled the strike zone. He made clear that even though the courts in the strike district itself might have been unable to act, there were courts outside of the affected zone which were clothed with ample jurisdiction to try all of the cases arising out of the strike disorder.

In the midst of the groups of lawyers representing the miners, headed by Frank S. Mouett, former attorney general of Ohio, sat a gray haired, stout old woman, with sparkling gray eyes snapping from beneath heavy brow, who watched witnesses with intent gazes. She was "Mother" Jones leader of the striking miners, but lately come from the "bull pen" of the military court and she directed the questioning of astute lawyers to the points of the miners' case as she had watched it develop in her two years in the local fields of the state. "Mother" Jones will herself be called as one of the star witnesses of the miners later in the investigation.

The committee today planned to make a flying trip into the strike territory to see conditions for itself. A special train will be taken from Charleston through both the Paint and Cabin Creek coal fields.

Senator Swanson believes that one days work in the mining district will
